Hi Will,

Thank you for supplying this information.

The analysis of height difference does not affect the field located within West Lindsey District Council's (WLDC) boundary and the geophysical survey highlighted possible archaeology here. Therefore, my comments and recommendations remain for this area. We recommend that a 3% of the area within WLDC is archaeologically evaluated by trial trenching prior to determination, there should also be provision for a further 1% trenching of the area if necessary to establish extents of archaeological remains in order to help inform any future mitigation strategy. Archaeological trial trenching should target geophysical anomalies and areas which are apparently blank in the survey.

Kind regards,
